$40,000 MORE FOR CITY AND COUNTY

B'g Balance Comes End Of The Present Month

The prospect for extensive improvements on the belt road around the island is becoming decidedly brighter. The present indication is that there may be between $20,000 and $30,000 available for the work, over and above the regular appropriation.

of money. If a start is made in the next few days the movement will unquestionably become general. This is the size-up of the strike situation as presented from a reliable Japanese source.

It will not be surprising if some of the Agitation leaders desert their associates.

This is a day of comparative quiet in strike circles.

The only murmurs come from the ranks of the dissatisfied strikers and the disgusted ones who are discovering the false position in which they have been placed by the agitators.

Standing Pat. The plantation men report the situation absolutely unchanged. They have given their orders that the Japanese strikers now on the plantations shall either return to work or leave the houses they have been occupying. There is no wavering nor shadow of a doubt.

Pearl Harbor Contract Let

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The contract for the construction of the naval dock at Pearl Harbor has been awarded to the San Francisco Bridge Company, whose bid was $1,760,000. The bid of Leach of Boston, whose figure was the lowest, was rejected on account of the guarantee check being defective.

The San Francisco Bridge Company is a large Coast concern of which John McMillan is the head. The company owns the dredge Pacific, which was brought down here to dredge the harbor. This is not the company with which Captain M. is connected.

11th Let Go

Augusta Freitas, the last of the eleven supposed lepers brought over from Molokai to the Kalaheo Receiving Station for re-examination according to the provisions of the legislative resolution, was, like the ten others, found not to have the disease, and she was this morning set free and given a certificate stating that she is not a leper.

Augusta Freitas is a woman 41 years old. Her youth lies behind her—the best years of her life, the years of joy and hope and love. The years when she might have been a happy wife and mother, surrounded by a loving family, living the life which is the right of each woman to enjoy—these years she has been obliged to spend on the rocky peninsula of Kalaheo, among the hundreds of wretched victims of a hideous disease under the frowning shadow of a probable fate worse than death itself.

And now Augusta Freitas is free. She is not a leper, and she has a certificate from the Board of Health to prove it. But behind her lie the days and months and years of horror, the dread that is worse than death itself, the mental suffering that is infinitely more terrible than pain. How many nights has she lain in her bed in the house of a leper and looked back upon the days when she was a other woman and end hope and happiness and love lay before her? How many weary

UNITED STATES TAKES A HAND

Uchiyama, Member of Japanese Committee of Twenty, Bound Over To Grand Jury On Charge of Sending Scurrilous Matter Through the Mails—Sheba's Paper Stolen from Post Office—Other Arrests Will Follow

The examination of Uchiyama, the Japanese arrested yesterday at Kahuku by United States Marshal Hendry on the charge of sending scurrilous and defamatory matter through the mails to the Hawaii Shippo, brought out the fact that an organized conspiracy existed at Kahuku to boycott the Shippo and to steal from the postoffice the copies of the paper sent to Kahuku Japanese.

Uchiyama in his statement to Interpreter George Yamada, said that a meeting of the Kahuku Japanese strikers was held and it was resolved to take all the copies of the Shippo that came to Kahuku and send them back to Editor Sheba unopened. Most of the Japanese present agreed to this, but there were half a dozen or so who did not. Nevertheless, the committee of twenty appointed to attend to the matter took from the postoffice not only the papers of those who had agreed to have their papers sent back, but also the copies mailed to those who did not agree to this.

It was easy for them to get all the papers, as it has been the custom at Kahuku for one man to get all the Japanese mail. This, of course, is not according to the rules and regulations of the Postoffice Department, and United States District Attorney Breckons

BURROUGHS CHANTS HAWAII'S PRAISE

“Be not weary in well doing; keep up the good fight—not with sword, but through the press, which is more powerful and more effective.”

Growing old gracefully in years, but wonderfully active and versatile in mind and body, John Burroughs, the world-noted naturalist, sat among the palms and flowers in the foyer of the President House and talked of Hawaii, her people, their environments and opportunities, and the commercial progress of the islands. His clear, gray eyes shone with the flush of Nature's charm with which he is so richly endowed, and as he talked one could feel an echo of the life-long influence of the forest, flowers and hills that have been his favorite companions.

“It is simply wonderful—I have thought of Hawaii as a vague abstract,” he said, “as a little group of islands far out in the Pacific, shut off from the rest of the world, where I might find half civilized beings. Instead, I have come to a place made beautiful by nature, where I find modern progress, and an intelligent, hospitable people, who have overwhelmed me with their kind attentions.”

“In my tramp over your hills, I am deeply impressed with the richness of their soil and their verdure. They are different from any I have
